TO THE WEST! TO THE WEST!

Before making your arrangements to follow the advice of the "thousands who have already gone," it would be well to consider what has been done to make the journey to your "Homes in the West" as pleasant and free from danger as human skill and foresight can accomplish.

By consolidation and construction, a road has been put into operation on the shortest possible line from Nashville, Tenn., to St.

Louis, "the future great city of the world."

This line, the

ST. LOUIS & SOUTHEASTERN RAIL-

WAY,

has, during the past year, earned an enviable reputation by its smooth track, prompt time, sure connections, and the magnificence of its passenger equipment. Its trains are made up of new and commodious day cars, provided with the celebrated Miller coupler and platform, and the Westinghouse air-brake.

It is positively the only line running

Pullman Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping

Cars through without change from Nashville to St. Louis. No other line pretends to offer such advantages, either in distance, time, or equipment. Why, then, journey by circuitous routes? Do not be induced to purchase tickets to St. Louis or the West by any other line, remember that

The "St. Louis & Southeastern" is the shortest, cheapest, best and only line under one management from Nashville to St. Louis, and is from 60 to 200 miles the shortest to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, California, Texas, and all western points. It is also the "Chicago Shortest Line," via Evansville.

You can secure the cheapest rates for yourself and your movables on application, in person or by letter, to CHARLES

MCCABE, Southern Passenger Agent, near

College street Depot, Nashville, Tenn., or to the undersigned.

W. B. DAVENPORT,

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Tuesday, October 7th, 1873.

The execution of Nundomar, a Brahmin of the first caste, by Warren Hastings, while Governor-General of India, on a trumped-up charge of forgery, did not excite more resentment in England than does the hanging of the Modoc murderers by the United States among the enemies of the administration. Why or for what purpose such men as Captain Jack should be let loose upon the people of the West, is beyond conjecture. The talk about his heroism and gallant defense, when beset by superior numbers of armed enemies, is merely sentimental twaddle. His conduct, during the flag of truce, when he killed General Canby, destroys the faintest trace of heroic fortitude which unthinking and ignorant men ascribe to the Indian character. That very act made him an outlaw from mankind, and as such he has justly been hanged. The fact is that the management of the Indians by the government of the United States, ever since their removal beyond the Mississippi, has been to place a premium on their warring on our frontier. The terms of peace were always a subsidy to the Indians, and when their government supplies were exhausted they started on the war path, knowing this was the easiest way to get more.

This execution, to be wholesome, should be kept up, as long as such monsters as Captain Jack exist.

Yesterday the Atlantic balloon soared for its Eastern flight. The difficulties which have retarded the enterprise have been overcome, and, very quietly, the great air-ship slipped from her moorings.

The impediments which have hitherto baffled the projectors of this voyage have been of the same kind which men meet in attempting novelty. Ignorance and incredulity are always the enemies of genius; even common sense frequently stands aghast at the hardihood of the seer, and predicts disaster for his efforts.

Should this attempt fail, it will only remain for another voyager, as courageous as he who commands the Graphie, to avoid the error which Donaldson may make, and try again. As for Donaldson himself, whatever may be his success, his name will hereafter be known wherever glory finds fame. If he lands in Europe he will take his place along with such names as Columbus and Watt; but should he perish, in that time when mankind shall navigate the air as they now navigate the sea, his memory will be cherished as a martyr in the cause of experimental science, and his name hallowed as were the Lanes and Penates of old.

[From the New York Commercial Path-Finder.]
Schillinger's Artificial Stone—The Most Perfect in Use.
It has long been a desideratum to obtain some material for the pavement of sidewalks which would be free from the defects inherent in all substances hitherto used. Innumerable have been the attempts to compass this end, but none have met with more than partial success, until the introduction of "Schillinger's Artificial Stone."

This composition is based upon the well known qualities of Portland cement, which, however, have never been so completely and satisfactorily utilized. This stone is composed of Portland cement, sand and gravel, in certain portions, and experience demonstrates its adoption to every purpose for which stone is appropriate, and for many wherein the use of natural stone would be impracticable.

Sidewalks, which are to be subject to the ceaseless tread of hurrying multitudes in a great city, and without the thorough usage occasioned by the handling of heavy machines, should clearly be possessed of the essentials of strength, durability and economy. That these pertain in an eminent degree to the Schillinger Stone is amply proven by the result of a series of experiments, carefully conducted by the ablest engineers of Europe and America, including among others of acknowledged skill Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gilmore, U. S. A. These experiments were chiefly directed towards the exhibition of the following qualities in this artificial product:

1st. Its tensile strength or ultimate power of resistance. 2d. Its power to withstand compression. 3d. Its increase in duration. 4th. Its value compared with other combinations. 5th. The relative cost of modern sidewalks.

The power required to rend asunder one square inch of Portland cement, 320 days old, is found to be 1,152 pounds. The superiority of Portland cement for a building material, as compared with bricks, is shown by the fact, that the former yields only to the crushing pressure of 120 tons, while Stafford blue brick pulverized at 50 tons, fire clay at 65, and Medway pressed brick at 48 tons.

Another remarkable property of this cement is the certainty with which it hardens; a mixture of equal parts of cement and sand, withstand a pressure of 160 pounds to the square inch at the expiration of one week, 244 pounds in three months, 318 pounds in twelve months, and 351 pounds in two years, showing an increase of induration in two years of a fraction, over 119 per cent.

The following table showing the relative value of various building materials is the result of experiments conducted by Maj. Gen. Gilmore, U. S. A.

Material.	Pure Cement.	Cement & Sand 1.	Cement & Sand 2.
Akron.....	5.2	3.8	3.4
Brighton and Rosendale.....	4.9	3.8	3.4
Cumberland.....	6.5	4.2	3.8
James River.....	4.2	3.8	3.4
Newark and Rosendale.....	5.8	3.8	3.4
Portland.....	10.5	8.6	6.5
Remington.....	8.5	4.8	3.4
Sandusky.....	3.8	3.2	3.4
Shepherdstown.....	5.1	5.2	3.1
Titus.....	5.1	4.2	3.8

The above conclusively demonstrate that the Portland cement is the most powerful, durable, and reliable of all material used in the construction of artificial stone.

In General Gilmore's treatise on lime, hydraulic cements, and mortars, we find valuable testimony to the great superiority of the Portland above all other cements. Blocks of each were moulded—8 inches long by 2 inches wide and thick—under a pressure of 32 pounds to the square inch. These were broken on supports four inches apart, the pressure being applied midway between the supports. The blocks had been kept in sea-water after the first twenty-four hours and were 320 days old when broken. The weight requisite to break the Portland, pure, was 1,542 lbs; mixed with one equal part of sand, 1,260 pounds; one part cement and two of sand, 950 pounds. Out of twelve other well-known cements, the nearest approach to the above figure was the Cumberland, which required a breaking weight of, respectively, 954, 920, and 568 pounds. The others were so far below as to make comparison absurd.

The cost of side-walks varies not only with the material, but with the facilities for obtaining it and the natural features of the locality where it is to be laid. Precise figures are difficult to give, but it is safe to say that, all things being considered, the Schillinger Artificial Stone is decidedly the cheapest material ever employed.

The walks composed of a mixture of asphaltum with sand and gravel present a pleasing appearance at first, but experience shows that changes of temperature seriously affect them, while the odor emanating from the compound is often very disagreeable; above all, they fail to endure the wear and tear of ordinary traffic. Asphaltum was long used by the ship-builders of Glasgow, and elsewhere, for lining iron vessels, but it could not endure tropical heat, and Portland cement has lately been substituted; this is found to answer perfectly, protecting cargoes not only from heat, but from rust and bilgewater.

To illustrate the endurance of artificial stone, with this cement for its chief ingredient, we will mention the pavement of King William's Bridge, Edinburgh; that in the court-yard of the Liverpool Exchange; and the platform and floor of the railroad Station at Newcastle. These have been laid for periods ranging from four to fourteen years, and, although subject to heavy usages, have actually improved with time. In London, Liverpool, and other cities of England, it is largely used for walls and floors of houses, stables, &c.; being found not only durable and economical, but possessing hygienic properties, preventing dampness by its non-absorbent quality. In many of these cities of Continental Europe, this material is extensively introduced, and it is destined almost entirely to supersede all other material for the same purpose. Examination of those wonderful works, built by the Romans 2,000 years ago, shows conclusively that the material used was in many respects identical with Portland cement, and they bid fair to remain intact while the world stands.

To come down to modern days, and our own city, one has only to examine the walks recently made at the Battery, around a portion of the City Hall Park, and in other public grounds, to be convinced that the ne plus ultra of sidewalks has been attained.

Being laid, not in a continuous sheet, but in blocks of any desired form and color, great beauty of appearance can be secured, while the introduction of material which makes the joints perfectly water-tight, insures freedom from all deterioration, and enables blocks to be taken up intact and with equal safety as the natural stone. The adaptability of this stone to irregular surfaces, its smoothness and freedom from dust, added to its sterling qualities of strength and endurance, make it the very best article which human ingenuity has ever devised for side-walks and building purposes generally.

Capt. J. C. Brain, President of the Southern Artificial Stone Company, is stopping at the Purcell House, where he can be seen and orders left.

Thomas M. Brower, of Surry, N. C., will send shoes to the Raleigh Fair, also to the Southwest Virginia Fair at Wytheville.

A farmer near Surry, N. C., has begun planting his winter wheat, and is now only half down, having sown two hundred and fifty bushels.

Henry Taft, of Pitt county, was instantly killed by the discharge of a gun in the hands of Eugene Hollidy. Whiskey is said to have been the cause.

The Statesville Intelligencer man has had a lot of newly cured tobacco laid on his table. We have an idea that that tobacco has vanished into smoke before now.

New-Berne burglars now use chloroform—one tried it on Mrs. Williams there on Saturday night, and captured all her money. Parties suspected and warrant issued.

The News says a North Carolina Sewing Machine, invented by John G. Moore, of Company Shops, has been entered for the State Fair, and will be on exhibition.

Col. Lott W. Humphrey, Senator for Wayne county, is preparing a plan to be submitted to the next Legislature for adjusting the State debt, says the Goldsboro Messenger.

The case of Harrison Palmer, who was before His Honor Judge Clark on a writ of habeas corpus on Saturday last, resulted in his being held to bail in the sum of $2,500, as it appeared that the killing was done by Palmer in self-defence.

So you don't care about donkey-riding, Missy; and why? "Oh I've got a pony, and one doesn't care about donkeys after that, you know." "Has a pony got more legs than a donkey, then?" Missy, (who doesn't like to be chaffed), "Yes; exactly twice as many as some donkeys that I know of."

A down-east farmer known far and widely by his patriotic title had a neighbor who was in the habit of working on Sundays, but after awhile this Sabbath breaker joined the church. One day our friend met the minister to whose church he belonged. "Well, Uncle Sam," said he, "do you see any difference in Mr. P. since he joined the church?" "Oh, yes," said Uncle Sam, "a great difference. Before, when he went out to mend his fences he carried his axe over his shoulder, but now he carries it under his coat."

MILLINERY.--Mrs. Lumsden pub-she is in hopes that the sand blockade will soon be raised, as it is an obstruction to her business. The ladies would go there though, even if there were many other piles of sand, as she can just make a perfect "love of a bonnet."

SKIFF & GAYLORD'S MINSTRELS.--

Owing to the severe storm last night, there was a very small attendance at the Opera House, which of course caused a depression among the actors. The six end men was quite a novelty, and created much fun, though we would have preferred more musical instruments instead, for a full effect. The contortion acts were very fine, and elicited much applause, but the musical portion of the performance was hardly up to the standard. The tenor solo would have been admired had the instruments been in tune, but they also felt the depressing influence and did not chord. The dogs were not seen during the evening.

It is impossible for singers or performers to do well on rainy nights to slim houses, and we do not consider it fair to criticise the troupe for their last night's shows. To-night, with our clear skies, we expect a fine show and a good house.

The singers will be in tune, and dancers' steps lively and attractive.

The Statesville Intelligencer says that Rev. John Russell, of Michigan, will canvass North Carolina in the interest of the Good Templars, commencing about the first of November next. The Order in this State now numbers sixty-four Lodges, with a membership of over four thousand.

The Fayetteville Statesman pitches into our neighbor the Journal for some of its inconsistencies about the money panic, which it holds up as a sample of the utterly blind state in which Democratic journals rush on to attack the administration.

THE TOWN CRIER.

—The Richmond Journal puts it thusly: "When the public pants most —We return our thanks to Jordan Stone, Secretary of the Roanoke and for an invitation to be present. A fine time is anticipated.

—The sudden squall yesterday evening, just after we went to press, blew the immense show-boards around the Court House square almost over, frightening a bevy of nurses and children almost to death. It was a narrow escape.

SOCIAL EQUALITY.--Last evening three respectable colored men, purchased first class tickets and took their seats in an orderly manner in some of the orchestra chairs at the Opera House.

The Journal calls attention to it and uses the following language:

It will be well for the lessee of the Theatre and for the managers of the theatrical companies, to understand once for all, that the white people of Wilmington do not propose to illustrate the doctrine of social equality with negroes.

If white people are not protected by the lessee of the Theatre and the managers of companies against the intrusion of negroes they will prefer to remain at home.

Suppose a colored man purchases a first class ticket and rides in a first class car, as he has a right to do, as is done almost every day on our railroads, is that "social equality?" Because Mr.

G. L. Mabson represents this county in the State Senate, and is seated on the floor with Col. J. W. Ellis, of Columbus, and both these gentlemen serve on the same committee, is that "social equality?" The Opera House is a public institution, and tickets are for sale to all well behaved people, and the only trouble is that there are no comfortable seats for colored people. As the Opera House is now arranged, there is but one reserved place for colored people, and this is a resort for prostitutes and other evil disposed persons, and no colored man who has a proper respect for his wife will seat her there. We have often stated for our colored friends that they do not desire any of this bugbear called "social equality," and it is well known they rejected Beauregard's overtures in New Orleans in that matter.--

All the colored people ask, is that certain seats be reserved for them in a respectable portion of the Opera House where they can be seated, free from molestation or annoyance. This looks to us to be reasonable, and we hope Capt. Pennypacker will make arrangements to that end, either by excluding improper persons from that portion of the building now assigned to respectable colored people, or assigning them certain rows of seats in some other part of the Opera House.

LENT'S NEW YORK CIRCUS AND ME-NAGERIE is recognized everywhere as without a superior and with scarcely a rival in the tented field. It gives three performances here on Monday next at the hours specified in our advertising columns, and we feel certain that Mr.

Lent will have no reason to feel disappointed at his reception. Many of our citizens have seen the circus department of this great show in New York City, and know its worth from personal acquaintance, but to those who have never had the pleasure of visiting the iron building on Fourteenth street, where the performances were given, a brief synopsis of the attractions may not be inappropriate in this place. In the equestrian department there are a dozen leading performers, chief of whom may be mentioned Billy Dutton, four horse, bareback and principal rider,

William Batchelor, bareback hurdle rider, and Dick Rivers, the originator of several new and decidedly interesting "horse acts." The Victorelli Brothers, trapeze and horizontal bar performers, lead in the list of muscular athletes, and associated with them are the following stella lights of the arena: Fred Levantine, the graceful and perfect equilibrist, and Batchelor, Dutton, Ashton and Murry, the famous leapers and tumblers. Conrad's dogs do an act that surprises and delights old and young alike. The clowns are Messrs. Billy

Burke, Charley Seeley, Conrad and Kit

Carson, a quartette that could physic a laugh out of a gate-post by their odd and humorous sayings and doings. The ring performances are conducted under the management of Mr. Shannon, and to the finest music ever heard in a circus tent. The trappings are gorgeous, the costumes magnificent, and the stock of trained horses and ponies cannot be approached by any other organization.

Aside from the great circus itself, and we have enumerated but a few of the chief features in this department, the menagerie is the largest and best equipped in the country and requires several extra tents for its accommodation. In its cages may be found a choice variety of the most rare, curious and savage beasts, birds and reptiles, headed by a lion that strikes a tremor of fear to the hearts of all who look upon him. He is the most magnificent specimen in captivity and is unmanageable. Besides the King of Beasts, there is a monster elephant, a pair of elegant large tigers, a lioness, a pair of leopards, a hyena, a diminutive African deer, a South American llama, a pair of buffaloes, a pair of camels, a pair of elks, a tapir, cages of birds, monkeys and serpents without end.

To those who disapprove of a circus, a rare treat is offered in the tents containing this forest of living, breathing wild and untamable beasts of prey.

This circus, it will be remembered, exhibits in the morning, afternoon and evening of Monday next, the 18th inst., and we again prophecy the success of the undertaking.

LAUNCH OF THE URIAH TIMMONS.--

This beautiful yacht-built pilot boat was successfully launched from the ship yard of the Cassidy Brothers this forenoon at 11:20 o'clock. At the time appointed for the launch, although the prevailing storm made it very unpleasant to be out of doors or away from comfortable fires, there was a large assemblage of the friends of the builders and owners of the little beauty present to witness her introduction to her destined element. The sliding ways having been duly and truly prepared and a copious application of tallow and oil having been made, at the time of the top of the tide the word was given, the shores were knocked away, the obstacles removed, and amid the glad shouts and huzzas of the multitude, the Uriah Tim- mons glided most gracefully into her native element. Our young friend, Mr.

Henry C. Cassidy, held the bottle by a lanyard as he stood on the bow, a picture of happiness, his face wreathed in smiles, conscious of the fact that this event is the first of the sort that has occurred in Wilmington since he stood in a similar position on the bow of the Confederate iron clad ram Raleigh in January 1863. The launch was a perfect success, and as she glided into the water and shot out nearly across the river, the tug "Wm. Bryce" ran up along side of her and soon brought her to the wharf, when a gay crowd gathered on board, and like a bashful and blushing bride the "Uriah Timmons" with streaming colors and happy faces, passed in review along our wharves, the observed of all observers. The builders of this little vessel, Messrs. F. A. L.

Cassidy and Henry C. Cassidy, have shown themselves master workmen and thoroughly acquainted with all the details of their business, and we hope soon to chronicle many more launches from their building yards.

Jones and Jackson are neighbors, but are far from being on friendly terms. A friend of Jones said to him the other day, "I am glad you have made up with Jackson." "I made up with him!" exclaimed Jones, "Not much I haven't. What put that into your head?" "Why," replied his friend, "I saw him hanging up a pig today, and he said he had borrowed the rope of you." "A pig!" sighed Jones.

"Yes," "Well," said Jones, "he came to me to borrow a good strong rope, and I lent it to him. How should I know what use he intended to put it to?" And Jones sighed again.

ST. LOUIS, October 7.

The State Superintendent of the Insurance yesterday filed a petition in the Circuit Court, asking for an injunction to restrain the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Company from transacting any further business, and especially from issuing any new policies reinsur-ing any of its risks or paying out any money whatever. The petition further asks for the appointment of a receiver and a decree dissolving the Company and winding up its affairs. The petition is based upon the fact as the Superintendent alleges that an examination of the affairs of the Company discloses that its liabilities exceed its assets by $904,955, exclusive of $100,- 000 capital stock. A writ of injunction

The court martial before which Marthe audience chamber of the Grand Trianon at Versailles. The scene at the opening was remarkable. Nearly all the witnesses who had been summoned were present, and the court room was filled with the most distinguished men of France. Beside those previously reported were M. M. Favre and Regniere, and the calling of their names as witnesses caused a sensation. Bazaine appeared in full uniform as Marshal of France, with the ribbon and Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor on his breast. He took his seat in an arm chair by the side of his counsel, and was courteously addressed by the President
